

Says

What have we heard them say?
What can we imagine them saying?

Thinks

What are their wants, needs, hopes, and dreams?
What other thoughts might influence their behavior?

Feels

What are their fears, frustrations, and anxieties?
What other feelings might influence their behavior?

Does

What behavior have we observed?
What can we imagine them doing?

 See an example

LEARNING CENTER

Learning centers are student centred, engaging activities which are also self-checking and self-selecting.

In Learning center teacher may also add additional interest areas such as computer,outdoor,woodworking,and cooking ,science,discovery and writing

The activities are used to focus on a set of skills and deepen the students knowledge and abilities in that area.Students can work alone in pairs or in small groups.

Learning centers include art,blocks,books, dramatic play, library,math, music and movement,art and painting, puzzles and games,sand and water.

Learning center is defined space in the classroom where materials are organised and made available so that students can learn without constant teacher direction

Centers can be organised to support the development of specific literacy skills, mathematical.concepts,student interests or integrated themes

Learning centers may have different kinds of names such as faculty development centres, teaching and learning centers, centers for teaching and learning, centers for teaching excellence, academic support centers and others

Learning centers are independent academic units within colleges and universities that exist to provide support services for faculty to help teaching faculty to improve their teaching and professional development

Learning centers exist to help instructors to modernize their teaching style to scaffold concepts and information in a way that students learn more meaningfully taken and to help student learn more deeply and retain what they have learned.

University professors,part time instructors or teaching assistants approach teaching as experts in their fields and know their contents

Learning centers routinely provide professional development for graduate students as they prepare for future careers as teaching faculty

Some centers also may provide learning support service for students and other services depending on the individual institution